

VOL. NO. XXXIX, WHOLE NO. 3208

RESIGNATION OF ROOSEVELT BEING SOUGHT

Senator Dill, Washington, Democrat, Without Comment, Proposes Resolution Calling for Such Action

WADSWORTH SPEAKS

"Attempt to Besmirch by False Impend Name of Public Official," New York Republican Replies

Washington, Mar. 31.—While the oil committee was in recess yesterday, opponents of the leasing of the naval reserves were restricted in their action to the floor of the senate, all the developments centered around a resolution by Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, calling for the resignation of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt. It proposes to express the "sense of the senate" that President Coolidge should ask for the assistant secretary's resignation.

Senator Dill introduced his resolution without comment, but Senator Wadsworth, Republican, New York, took the first opportunity to attack the "obvious motive behind it." Declining the author of the resolution had deliberately withheld the facts," Senator Wadsworth contended the purpose was "a bare attempt to besmirch by false imputations the name of a public official." He referred to the Washington senator as "another spider rising from political trenches."

A letter from Assistant Secretary Roosevelt to State Senator William W. Campbell, New York, was read into the record.

Reaching the assistant secretary's connection with the oil reserves, it was declared he had opposed their transfer to the interior department and was ignorant of the leases which ended until they had been announced publicly. Senator Wadsworth also presented a letter from Rear Admiral Robert S. Griffin, retired, a leader of the anti-leasing in the department, confirming Mr. Roosevelt's statement of the facts.

Early Closing Not Certain.

Dakota, announced there had been no change in the scheduled reconvening of the oil committee tomorrow, despite the failure of subcommittee services to locate William Boyce Thompson, former chairman of the Republican national committee's finance committee, who is to be questioned regarding campaign contributions.

Plans for forthcoming hearings do not go beyond the delving into campaign contributions from oil interests, members of the committee said, but there was no confirmation of the reports that an early conclusion of that body's activities was now foreseen.

George White, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, is expected to be one of the witnesses to testify tomorrow. Senator Dill, who is a member of the committee, left Washington tonight for a speaking tour in which he promised to amplify his intention that Assistant Secretary Roosevelt should not remain in the office.

BRIDGES BLOWN UP; IRELAND EXCITED

Republicans Disclose Responsibility for Destruction—Many Structures Down

(By the Associated Press)

Montreal, Mar. 31.—A number of bridges on the main road between Limerick and Dublin, in central Ireland, were blown up last night and the roads were blocked with felled trees. The Republicans disclaim responsibility for the destruction.

Residents of the country districts around Mullingar, County Westmeath, were awakened at midnight by a series of loud explosions. It was learned later that all the roads in the district had been either blocked or blown up.

An attempt to blow up a bridge on the Dublin road failed.

Great excitement prevails in the affected areas.

Buffalo, Mar. 31.—A three-alarm fire at 121 Pearl street brought out firemen to find the apparatus in the basement of a downtown district shortly before 10 o'clock this afternoon. The blaze spread through a six-story brick structure in the heart of the lower business section.

Firemen were fighting to save adjoining buildings, which were suffering smoke and water damage.

base on the contents of the building are approximately $250,000.

SUPREME COURT MAY DECIDE CASE

Social Contract Charge Expected to Decide the Right of Congress to Probe

Washington, Mar. 31.—Indictment by a federal grand jury here today of Harry F. Sinclair, to whom the government leased the Teapot Dome oil reserve, on contempt charges resulting from his refusal to testify before the senate oil committee, constituted the first action of the kind to grow out of the senate's investigation of the oil leases. The action eventually it is believed may lead to a ruling by the United States supreme court on the authority of congress to develop evidence along lines followed in the present inquiry.

Counsel for Sinclair here stated that the oil operator was not in Washington but that it was their belief he would return voluntarily to face the indictment. Ten counts were listed in the indictment, which was signed by District Attorney Gordon Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts as special assistants, each referring to specific questions asked Sinclair by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, in the course of the oil committee's inquiry.

The questions, which Sinclair declined to answer, declared he would "reserve any evidence" he might be able to furnish for the courts, were declared by the grand jurors to have been "pertinent to the matters and questions then under inquiry before the said committee."

DOGS FAIL TO FIND MURDERER'S TRAIL

Detectives Burn and Drain Swamp in Attempt to Solve
Bauer Slaying

New York, Mar. 31.—The failure of an American bloodhound and a German police dog to pick up a six-day-old trail today marked the latest effort of scores of detectives to track down the "Man in Brown" who murdered Mrs. Maude Bauer beside a lonely road in Chelsea, S. I.

The dogs' services were offered by J. R. Maragaroff of Westover, N. J., a police officer who asserted they often had picked up scents several days old which led to the discovery of lost persons of missing bodies.

For two hours the dogs, coached by their master and Captain of Detectives Van Wagner, nosed in vain through the swampy copse where Mrs. Bauer was believed to have been killed. The murderer's trail was too stale.

As a last resort workmen were set at burning the brush and draining the swamp near the murder spot, to facilitate the search for clues to the slayer and the pistol he was believed to have tossed away there.

COMMISSIONER PARSONS APPOINTED TO JUDGESHIP

Albany, Mar. 31.—James A. Parsons, a member of the Public Service commission since May, 1923, was named today by Governor Smith as a judge of the court of claims, to succeed William W. Webb, whose term has expired. The vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Parsons from the Public Service commission is to be filled by George K. VanNamee of Watertown, now secretary to the governor, whose appointment was announced tonight.

Nominations of both Judge Parsons and Mr. VanNamee were sent to the senate tonight for confirmation together with that of Dr. Shirley Wynne, of New York city, as trustee of the New York State Hospital for the Treatment of Incipient Pulmonary Tuberculosis, to succeed George M. Champkin, whose term of office had expired.

TWO DEAD IN GANG WAR.

New York, Mar. 31.—Max Kaufowitz, proprietor of a lower East side billiard parlor, and Louis Greenberg, a patron, were shot and killed tonight after they had been lured to the street by their assailants who escaped in a taxi.

A pistol was found clutched in Greenberg's hand, which he evidently had been unable to fire. Police ascribed the killing to a gang war.

BILL INTENDED TO INVESTIGATE MELLON TABLED

McKellar Only Senator Urging Action on It—Many G. O. P. Defenders

FUTURE ACTION DOUBTFUL

Democratic Leaders Confer on Course to Take—Robinson
Not Implicated

Washington, Mar. 31.—A resolution designed to oust Secretary Mellon from office on technical legal grounds, launched last Friday by Senator Mc- Kellar, Democrat, Tennessee, bobbed up automatically in the senate today only to land on the table with no one demanding action upon it.

It was buffeted severely by Mr. Mellon's Republican defenders before it stranded, while Senator McKellar was the only voice urging it on its way. Whether it will be reloaded later is a matter of dispute among senate Democrats, who, during the debate of the wisdom of pressing it, while Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who returned to Washington after an absence of several days, disclaimed responsibility for the motion initiated by the Tennessee senator.

NOT CHARGING WRONG DOING.

Senator McKellar declared he was not charging Mr. Mellon with any wrong doing or failure, but merely insisting upon enforcement of old statutes forbidding the appointment as federal fiscal officers of men "interested or concerned" in the carrying on of commercial enterprises.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who led the defenders, asserted from professional knowledge that Mr. Mellon had divested himself of every commercial and industrial connection that could be questioned in any way before he went to the treasury.

The names of the "Mellon companies" were flung about in general terms during the senate debate. Before the special senate committee investigating the internal revenue bureau, however, the intimate tax affairs of the Gulf Oil corporation, in which Mr. Mellon is a minority stockholder, were aired in detail.

TECHNICAL SNAGS IN EXPERTS' PATH

Americans Not to Sod This Week, as Intended—Report May Be Ready Saturday

(By the Associated Press)

Paris, Mar. 31.—Technical snags in the report of the reparations experts on the financial and economic position in Germany, caused for the most part by the trouble of banking subcommittee in drafting the annex to the main report dealing with the proposed new gold issue bank will be responsible for at least another day's delay in the handling of the experts' report to the reparations commission. Thus, the hope of Charles G. Dawes and Owen D. Young, the American experts of departure for the United States at the end of the week will not be fulfilled.

"Saturday, we hope," is the time the reparations officials now are talking, instead of Thursday or Friday, which had been mentioned as the time of delivery of the report.

"And we will have to work hard to get it done by Saturday at that," said one of the officials who is engaged in drafting the report. "Even Saturday we can not hope to have the report ready in printed form. It will have to be a typewritten copy at best, should it be in shape to turn over to the commission then."

Washington, Mar. 31.—The provision in the revenue bill for a 25 per cent reduction in income taxes payable this year was approved unanimously tonight by the senate finance committee.

On a motion at the night session included modification of the corporation tax, insertion of a provision to prevent issuance hereafter of tax-exempt securities and rejection of a sales tax proposal.

CENTRAL ENGINEER COMPLETES CAREER

Wheeler Makes Final Trip From Albany With Specialty Decorated Locomotive

Albany, Mar. 31.—Engineer Tracy Wheeler took the New York Central southbound Lake Shore limited out of Albany today for the last time. Wheeler, celebrating his 50th birthday, was retired today on a pension, ending 42 years of service with the New York Central without a serious accident.

For eight years Wheeler, whose home is in Potsdam, has been plotting the western Empire State express from New York to Albany each morning, returning to Harmon in the afternoon at the throttle of the Lake Shore limited.

This morning the veteran was given the choice of locomotives for the final drive to Albany and return. He selected 3,386, one of the fastest on the road, and, in order that the engineer's choice might bear him back on the last run, railroad officials decided to change engines on the express at this point.

GETS BIG SEND OFF.

When the limited rolled into the station this afternoon, 3,386 was at the head. American flags waved from her pilot. The tires of the driving wheels were silvered, and silver plates shone from other vantage points. Mounted on a frame was a large gold star, completing his service in good standing. Golden stars appeared also on the cylinder cases, and a sign reading "Empire State Express" was bolted to the boiler.

Wheeler, ready to swing to the cab, received handshakes and congratulations from dozens of friends. He replied in a husky voice, saw the signal blades rise to "proceed" and placed himself at the throttle. As the train gathered speed, a shrill voiced switching engine shrieked a farewell, taken up in turn, by dozens of locomotives in the roundhouse and on the tracks nearby. The groups at the station cheered, track foreheads thumped a valley as the limited crossed the bridge. Engineer Wheeler waved and his last run was begun.

Red Sox Capture Championship at Elks' Club and Accept Challenge of Dodgers.

Last evening at the Elks' bowling alleys the Red Sox took the first two games of their match with the Athletics for the championship of the Elks' club, and they have accepted the challenge of the Dodgers of the T. M. C. A. League for a match to be rolled soon.

The scores last night were far from high, still the averages were at least fair, and a close contest seems assured in the match between the leaders of the two leagues.

While it is late for the formation of a city league, still it is very probable that challenges will be issued in order that a city championship team may be established.

Following are tabulations of the match rolled last night:

What the World Is Doing

as seen by POPULAR MECHANICS MAGAZINE

Crops Measured by Meter on Auto Dashboard

For recording the measurements of fields planted in various crops, a meter attached to the dashboard of an automobile.

has been included in the equipment of the Department of Agriculture. The instrument is operated from the same starting mechanism used for an ordinary speedometer. Each crop may be recorded on its particular section and the dimensions of the "stands" are shown in feet. At the right of the device is a scale that measures the total distance covered in miles and the number of trips made. As each patch of a certain kind is measured, it is added to the total. Each scale is labeled and has a button which must be pressed to throw it into action. Ten principal crops are provided for as well as ground and pasture land.

Renewing Golf Balls

A cheap and practical method of renewing old golf balls is to fill the cracks with white rubber cement, which can be obtained at any drug store. After filling the cracks, the entire surface of the ball is painted. By repeating the balls in the oven there are no bubbles or cracks, which have a tendency to influence the course of the ball, and the whitewashed surface will show up well. It is a good idea to wash the balls in cool soapy water before going to the grounds, as this helps to retain the old luster and removes stains.

Secrets of the Seven Seas Told by "Bottle Papers"

To learn the speed and direction of ocean currents, government experts use "bottle papers." Accurate knowledge of these drifts is important to navigation, and the safety of hundreds may depend upon it. Small slips with directions for their return printed in the principal languages, are given to ship captains, to be sealed in flasks and thrown overboard. Months or years later, some return. One floated nearly across the Atlantic and back, another crossed the widest part of the Pacific in a little over two years. A third, dropped near the Cape of Good Hope, was picked up on the western coast of Australia.

Sand for Railroads' Safety Costs Millions Yearly

While big figures are used in telling the cost of safety to the railroads, the amount is the average person is the amount spent for sand. Four tons are required for every mile of road in the United States, according to the figure, one track line with 7,000 miles of track. As this road is in the middle west and south, where mountains are not encountered, the figures given are regarded as conservative. The cost of putting the sand into the engine box is about $2. a ton or an average minimum. For all the roads, the yearly cost is estimated at $2,677,000. For the most part the sand is brought from river bottoms and dried by coke steam at the round house.

Never put an inside patch in a tire tube where the slit is over 1 in. long, because this will weaken the tube. However, when the slit is small, about ½ in. long an inside patch can be used. A tire tube should always be run over the rim before repairing.

LEADERSHIP

There are few men in this section of New York state better known or more respected for the quality of their judgment than is former State Senator Harvey D. Hinman of Binghamton. A short time ago a letter from Mr. Hinman on the general theme of "Political Leadership" appeared in the Knickerbocker Press of Albany. Written without purpose of publication the communication was perhaps general rather than specific in its suggestions, and as a result not a few replies reached both Mr. Hinman and the editor of the Knickerbocker Press, inquiring just what his ideas are as to how we, the common people, are to be led." His answer, appearing in his second letter will be food for thought to the thousands of voters of the state of New York who will peruse his statement and weigh his utterances.

Briefly, he believes that leaders should be men of action rather than words, whose answers are "yes, yes and nay, nay," who are dowered abundantly with honor, courage, character, common sense, ability and experience, who in public affairs not only profess but have openly stood for certain manifest things. Among them are: "Reverence of sacred things. Respect and obedience to law and lawful authority. Honest and impartial enforcement of all laws regardless of whether they consider them good or bad. Faithful performance of official duty without considering who it will hurt or who it will help. Warfare, as against a plague, upon every movement and every effort which tends, in any degree, to convert our representative form of government into a democracy. Maintaining, whatever the cost, the liberties of the individual and the rights of property, guaranteed by the Constitution. Active opposition to every attempt to supplant government of the people by the people with government of the people by factions, blocs, leagues, unions, associations, sects, cliques or other minorities by whatever name they may be called. Candor and truthfulness, free from hypocrisy and demagogic, in discussing and dealing with party and public affairs."

Other things which Mr. Hinman pertinently and properly asserts are: "The right of the people to govern themselves; to regulate every detail of man's existence; that many things can properly be left to the Creator with assurance that they will be policed by the operation of laws which cannot be repealed or amended by congresses or legislatures; that even in these days industry and trade are virtues not to be ridiculed; that all men of means are not dishonest nor all poor men honest; that because taxes are in the final instance passed on to the consumer, who pays to the last dollar, every unnecessary or useless board or bureau should be abolished; and that if officials should spend more time in trying to find out how the expenses of government could be lightened, and less in creating new jobs and looking for new sources of revenue to be tapped, great good would result to all."

In conclusion Mr. Hinman says that in these days, as in those of Grover Cleveland, "public office is a public trust," and he asks: "Do you think there are no such men? There is one in the White House now!"

The above communication should have consideration from every American citizen, since in its lines there are set forth the essential qualities of leadership. They are the cogent, well-considered utterance of one who has studied the matter carefully, and who presents his conclusions in a manner worthy of the distinguished statesman from the Southern Tier.

THE GUIDE POST—

PARABLES AND PICTURES

With many such parables spoke he the word unto them. Mark, 4:33.

Christ was not fond of definitions. He was more poet than logician.

Christ taught by parables and pictures.

He came into the world to be the Saviour of men.

What that meant in all its fulness could not be put into any doctrine, any theory, any definition.

So Christ looked around him in the world of life, and whatever he saw that was beautiful and useful and precious he claimed and used as a picture of himself.

"You do not know," he said to men, "you do not know what my coming to you really means."

"You think that I have come merely to teach you something or perhaps to do something for you."

"No."

"I have come to be something in your life."

"All that is best and most needful and most glorious is but a type and shadow of what I am."

"I am the bread of heaven."

"I am the power of life."

"I am the light of the world."

"I am the true vine."

"I am the good shepherd."

"I am the lamb of God."

"I am the prop, the truth, and the life."

CLIPPING FROM EXCHANGES

"What a Fall is There."

The Prince of Wales has done it again. With the aid of a retainer horse, he has again bowed to the silent applause of this democratic world. At Abingdon, near Wokingham, in a steeplechase, the Prince, a cropper. It was the latest of a succession of falls. The Empire is shocked. And' so is a headline. And it is intimated that pressure will be brought to bear on the heir to the British throne either to keep off or to stay on horses. For surely seem the horses that wear the Prince, and uneasy are his subjects.

And yet there are some political virtues in this multiple tragedy of the price of an equestrian. Great Britain is a democracy, even her dominions and colonies are more or less tributary to her. And the horseman, making a prince courteous, is a great leveller. As the prince strikes the ground he also strikes a very human note. All men are born free and equal in the sight of a horse, which respects a jockey cap quite as much as a crown. It would just as soon fall one at another.

So the democracy of Great Britain doubtless sighs with relief even as it sighs with concern at the prince's horsemanship. He seems just a Britcher, like the rest of them, who will never try to arrogate to himself the sovereign powers that parliament has wrested from British kings. He never will be, as the Mexicans say of their military dictators, "the man on horseback." —(Cincinnati Times-Star).

William Jennings Bryan.

Colonel Bryan has been young and is now old, yet never has he seen his party forsaken and refused to come to its aid. Three times in twenty-eight years he has laid aside personal interests of every sort that he might serve the democracy in the humble capacity of Presidential candidate. Three times, with increasing faith, the voice of the people has declared against him. Yet never has the broad of defeat been bitter in his mouth.

Today, prosperous and comfortable, leader of the great movement to eradicate evolution, with a magnificent home in Miami and orchards of oranges, grapefruit and alligator pears, once more he offers to sacrifice himself for the organization for which he has lost so many memorable battles.—(New York Tribune).

The Spirit of '76.

John Geroni's testimony makes clearer why Scotch costs so much to the ultimate consumer. When a bottle of whiskey has to bear the burden of graft, all the way from 50 cents to $1.50 paid to officials, big and little, it is small wonder that the drinking classes have to pay high. This aspect of the Daugherty investigation ought to arouse the country to some really great heights of indignation. We have remained passive while officials and big men behind officials lied and squirmed on the witness stand. The revelation of the cheapness and second-rateness of so many of the big-wigs who purport to govern us has not seemed to humiliate us greatly. But here is the suspicion that this official pilfering has increased the cost of bootleg liquor. That ought to stir up the Spirit of '76, if nothing else will.—(Hartford Times).

Problems Now.

"What should a woman wear when making a political speech?" We should say a party gown.—[South Bend Tribune.]

That Body of Yours.

By James W. Burton, M.D.

THE CAUSE OF THAT TIRED FEELING.

It is a mystery to some folks how a chap can work all the time and never seem to get tired.

On the other hand they see another fellow who seems to do nothing, and complains of being tired all the time.

The usual cause of tiredness, or fatigue as we call it, is the poison that accumulates in the muscles when you work or exercise.

This poison extracted from the muscle, and injected into a fresh muscle, will cause the fresh muscle to feel tired.

Now this poison not only tires the muscle, but passing into the circulation tires the entire body, including the brain and all the nerves.

But what of the person who takes no exercise and yet feels tired?

What causes the tiredness in him?

A poison induces the tiredness just as in the case of the muscle, but in another case.

If you are a fair sized eater, and they sit at your desk all day, you perhaps think that it is the mental effort that is tiring you.

That may enter into it somewhat.

However, perhaps you eat pretty well, and have no mental effort whatever through the day, and yet you feel tired.

What is the matter?

Well just as the poisons from the use of the muscles poison your system if they are not thrown off, so will the poisons that accumulate in your intestinal canal poison you.

Now,

Simply because your liver and intestine are so inactive, that they do not work fast enough to take care of the excess material you take into you.

Remember, it is "excess" that you fail to have it removed by moving around enough—insufficient exercise.

What is the matter?

Well just as the poisons from the use of the muscles poison your system if they are not thrown off, so will the poisons that accumulate in your intestinal canal poison you.

Fernmentation takes place—and poisons are manufactured.

Accordingly the blood picks up these poisons and carries them around with it as it circulates all over the body.

Thus although you have done no work, you may feel just as tired as the chap who has done a real day's work with his muscles.

Where he has it over you, however, is that while he is resting at night his circulation is so much stronger and faster than yours—due to his exercise—that he rises the next morning refreshed—free from the fatigue of the night before.

THINKS CONGRESSMAN ERRED

Editor Star: "I have read the excuse of Congressman Clark for his vote against the bonus.

There is, however, some fairly good reasons why he may be wrong. I believe the constitution says that private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation and as time and labor is a man's property, you could hardly call the seven or eight dollar per month, which was about what I received after deductions for allotment, insurance, etc., just compensation for wading through the mud in France.

As for the ability of the United States to pay, that sounds foolish.

They were able to let France and England have money to pay their soldiers a bonus; they could build ships after the war and then sink them to

I think Mr. Clark will discover his error.

The Lamb and the Lion.

According to the record of the weather bureau in Oneonta, the month of March came in under fairly lamb-like conditions, with clear skies and temperature not unreasonable.

Accordingly, to conform to ancient predictions, yesterday should have been windy, cloudy, blustering, cold and generally ionic but it wasn't.

Instead, save for a light snowfall in the morning, the day throughout was pleasant and the little snow that fell in early morning disappeared before noon.

Want a Home?

Am leaving city in early spring and have decided to sell my house at 83 Chestnut street. One of the best built and best located in the city. Price reasonable. S. S. Kilkenny.

Now

The "angel" in this instance, who stands ready to put up the cash and effort necessary to crystallize support for Davis, is former United States Senator Clarence Wayland Watson, a fellow West Virginian.

Watson served in the Senate from 1911 to 1913, filling out the unexpired term of Stephen B. Elkins.

But while he had dabbled in politics—sufficiently so to land in the Senate for awhile—Watson has preferred to play the game on the outside lines of business interests rather than seeking office for himself. His real interest has been in business—coal, railroads, banks.

As a coal operator his interests extend into four states—West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Kentucky. Among the big coal companies in which his word is or has been law are the Consolidation Coal Co., the Fairmont Coal Co., the Somerset and the Elk Horn.

He is voting trustee for the Seaboard Air Line Railway and a director in a dozen banks and trust companies.

An aggressive candidate must have an organization. An organization must have headquarters.

Headquarters must have stationery and supplies, stenographers, secretaries and publicly representative.

And all these require cash.

No cash, no candidate.

THE problem of an "angel" for at least one presidential "possibility" seems to have been solved without effort on his part.

John W. Davis, who will be among those voted for when the balloting begins at the Democratic convention in New York, has arranged that he will not run a candidate to get the nomination.

John, although advanced in the favorite son of West Virginia, makes a living as a lawyer in New York.

Among his clients include coalmen such as the Morgan interests.

AN ARISTOCRAT OF MEN'S STYLES

Good taste in clothes must be sensed rather than described. Any style, however, lacking that innate quality of good taste is doomed to speedy extinction. This season's styles are decidedly British — and the Royal Park suit from the Fashion Park designing rooms is truly correct and becoming. It is the aristocrat of men's clothes. Men who wear it are well groomed.

What to Wear in Jewelry

In our early Spring showing of Jewelry we have collected only the newest and most fashionable.

Bracelets are needed as well as the Corded Pendants with the new Spring dresses. Bobettes are the thing with the Spring suit. The large stone rings are better than before. Pearls for afternoon and evening are being worn as well as the fashionable colored beads. Earrings to match the new spring hat is the latest.

Costume Jewelry is more popular than ever this Spring and one needs many odd pieces to complete the effect. Luckily the cost of our costume Jewelry is surprisingly low priced.

We invite your attention and welcome a visit to this up-to-date showing of Spring Jewelry.

ENCOURAGING HANDICRAFT

Fund for Maintenance of Boys' Day Camps over $1,000.00 and Give All This Christmas.

Oneonta's home half team should enter upon the winter's activities in the strongest position financially it has ever enjoyed, the response to the appeal for subscriptions to the maintenance fund having been gratifying large. President Wilber of the Community Athletic association reports that subscriptions which total more than $1,000 have been received thus far and the committee has many more prospects to see.

President Wilber and Vice Presidents Marx and Keyes are personally calling upon the larger subscribers and they hope to complete their part of the task in a few days, after which the subscription paper will be passed along to all the fairs who may desire to give. These fairs, but whose interest in the game is as keen as others. It is planned that none who might be expected to give are overlooked and that an ample fund to assure the continuance of the team throughout the summer season will be secured before the opening game.

Those who have been solicited thus far have responded in a generous manner, but it must be understood that if the amount sought and actually needed is secured that all will have to respond with a good subscription.

Meanwhile hundreds of letters are being sent out soliciting games during the season while Manager Thomas is in quest of players to round out the team. There has been named a special committee empowered to secure a thoroughly competent umpire, one that knows the game and that gives each player what he earns is being sought.

URGES TAXPAYERS GET BUSY

This week Preferable Time to Prepare State Income Tax Returns—Next Week Rush Will Be On Says Dept.

The law of averages applies in the habits of people filing state income tax returns, and judging by past records, H. V. Farrell, auditor of that bureau, detailed to the Chamber of Commerce office, Oneonta, for this week, will have ample opportunity to assist taxpayers.

"As the law is five years old, it appears that taxpayers generally are putting off this duty until the last mad rush, which always occurs just before April 15th," says District Director Fred Graff of the City's director.

"With the change as to the necessity for returning from married persons living together only where their combined net income was $2,500 or more, over 125,000 of out old taxpayers in the state will now be relieved from the filing of any returns. Considerable of this loss, however, is offset by the new recruits in the army of industrial workers, who as single persons had pay envelopes totaling $1,000 or more during last year.

"It is particularly a good time for school teachers and other employees of cities, towns and villages to secure aid from our representative," concluded that official, "and if they have perplexing problems in connection with their returns, this week is a far better time to disentangle them than to present them for the scant attention which they must necessarily receive when there is a long queue of inquiring taxpayers lined up before our representa-

MOTHER'S GREATEST ASSET

Days to Show Their Colors During Week of April 21-May 2. According to Plans of Memorial Day Committee.

Boys' week, the idea of which was started in 1920 by the New York city Rotary club and which is now observed internationally, will be a big affair in Oneonta, according to plans now being developed by Oneonta Rotary club. The week of April 27-May 2, true to its ideal of service to the boy, regarded by Rotary as the nation's greatest asset. Oneonta Rotary club will make the seven days ones which will not soon be forgotten by the boys of the city or by their elders.

Boys' week is observed by Rotary clubs throughout the world and an extensive program of events has been mapped out by International headquarters. It will be impossible to develop all of the ideas here, however, but enough of the program will be retained to make the week one of great interest and importance to the boys. The cooperation of the Boy Scouts organization and of various civic bodies will be enlisted.

Sunday, April 27, will be Boys' Day in churches. Special services will be held at which subjects of special interest to boys will be set forth.

Monday, April 28, will be Boys' Day in the schools. Special programs will be put on in the schools with a view to emphasizing the great importance of a thorough education and of making the best possible use of the hours spent in school. Addresses will be delivered by prominent citizens stressing the importance of a good education and encouraging the acquiring of one as a means both of increasing one's ability to earn and one's power to serve others.

Tuesday, April 29, is Boys' Day in industry and citizenship but it is not likely that there will be any observance on that day unless by the boy Scouts.

Wednesday, April 30, is Boys' Day in entertainment and athletics. Activities on this day will be of an intramural nature and their purpose will be to enable the public to see what boys' work organizations are doing in developing the latent athletic ability in the boy and to develop the spirit of playing the game for the game's sake.

Thursday, May 1, is Boys' Loyalty Day but no demonstration has been planned for this day.

Friday, May 2, will be Boys' Day at home, one of the most important days of the week. The purpose of this day will be to interest fathers and mothers in their own boys and to emphasize the home as the greatest institution for character building and good citizenship. The emphasis on this night is on the family relationship toward the boy. It is not in any sense a Father and Son night, but a night in which the state of the Mother and the rest of the family is equally emphasized with that of Dad. On this night fathers will be asked to stay at home with their boys. Special radio programs of interest to boys will be broadcasted from a majority of the large stations.

Saturday, May 3, will be Boys' Day out-of-doors. The Boy Scouts will reign supreme on that day with outdoor demonstrations of various sorts.

Rotary International feels that in the promotion of boys' week it is doing a great service for the world. Warren G. Harding, the late ex-President, himself a Rotarian, had the following to say in regard to the movement:

"I heartily endorse Boys' week, and am sympathetic with the International Boys' Week program."

"The easiest way to solve the problem we are facing today is to see that boys get the right attitude toward the ideals at the heart of their country. They should have proper spare-time opportunities, sufficient opportunities to play, ample facilities for education, and the chance to learn a trade.

"Boys' Week focuses public attention upon the boy. It is well that we think of our boys, with the hope that Boys' Week may spread throughout the year."

DR. FLYNN REMEMBERED.

Presented with Traveling Bag by Bible Class.

On Sunday Rev. Dr. John W. Flynn was presented with a fine traveling bag of the Luckey make and fully equipped. The gift was made by the members of the Woman's Bible class of the First Methodist Sunday school, of which Dr. Flynn is the teacher. The presentation was made by Mrs. Baldwin, the president of the class, who expressed a hope that he would not interpret the gift as signifying a desire that he travel, but rather that he would bring back from conference a reappointment to Oneonta.

Later the class elected officers for the coming conference year as follows: President, Mrs. Doran Baldwin; secretary, Miss Edna Brings; treasurer, Miss Florence Lyon; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Harry Bruns. The class is large and prosperous.

FLORENCE M. LAIDLAW WEDS

Former Resident of Oneonta Bride of James E. Mills at East Orange N. J., Will Reside at Ilion.

Many Oneonta friends of Mr. and Mrs. Grant W. Laidlaw, and of their daughter, Miss Florence M. Laidlaw, now of East Orange, N. J., will learn with interest of the marriage of the latter on Saturday, March 22, to James E. Mills of the latter place. The following account of the wedding appeared in the Newark, N. J., Sunday Call of the following day:

"The marriage of Miss Florence Margaret Laidlaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant W. Laidlaw of 83 Watson avenue, East Orange, and James Ellison Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Mills of 751 Rose avenue, Orange, took place at 6 o'clock last evening in the home of the bride's parents. In a bower of southern ampalas, palms, ferns and pink roses the double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas B. Powell, pastor of the Grove Street Congregational church, East Orange. Orchid and pink sweet peas, with pink roses and greenery, decorated the house. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by Miss Beatrice Rogers of East Orange as maid of honor and by Miss Marguerite Harris of Montclair as bridesmaid. W. Ralph Daniel of Orange served as best man and Bridgewater Arnold of Orange acted as usher. The wedding march was played by Miss Winnie Curtis of Brooklyn.

"The bride wore a gown of white bridal satin made with a close-fitting bodice and full scalloped skirt trimmed with boucles of real Brussels lace. Her veil of Brussels point lace, a family heirloom, was arranged in coronet effect. She wore the bride-groom's gift, a gold and amethyst link bracelet and carried a cluster bouquet of white roses and lilles of the valley. When going away the bride wore a tan satin crepe dress with a black coat trimmed with fur and a small straw hat in woodshade, trimmed with feathers. The maid of honor and bridesmaid were gowned alike in orchid georgette and lace. Mrs. Laidlaw, mother of the bride, wore orchid georgette embroidered in silver, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Mills, was in gray chiffon velvet embroidered in coral beads.

"Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Mills will reside at 2 John street, Ilion, N. Y., where they will be at home after April 1. Among hostesses who have recently entertained for the bride are Miss Dorothy Franklin, daughter of Mrs. Henry R. Stevenson of 37 Watson avenue, Miss Marguerite Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Harris of 41 Melrose place, Montclair, and Mrs. Mills, mother of the bridegroom."

The numerous friends of the bride in this city and vicinity will join The Star in congratulations and heartfelt best-wishes.

Samuel M. Ralston. Can He Arrest Democracy From Younger Candidates?

Hoosier Senator a Dark Horse Who Will Figure, Though Handicapped By Age, in the Free for All Contest for Presidential Honors At the New York Convention.

By STANLEY A. KRAMER

(Washington Correspondent Of The International Syndicate, Formerly Capital Manager Of The Associated Press And Chief Of The Bureau Of Foreign Intelligence, State Department.)

SAMUEL MOFFETT RALSTON, of Indiana, who struck out from poverty in his teens, had a remarkable career as farmer boy, butcher, coal mine operator, lawyer, governor and United States Senator. He is in the offing of the Democratic National Convention as a potential figure in a free for all contest for Presidential honors. He is in his sixty-seventh year. Younger, he would outweigh most of his competitors; while despite his years more active than many in politics who have the "edge" on him in point of years, he is universally regarded as a safe and sane man to turn to in these days of sensitive politics.

A Scotch-Irish Presbyterian, a fighter who has won his way up through sheer courage and ability, a Mason who has taken occasion to deny that he is identified with the Ku Klux Klan, of which there are many in his state, a Jeffersonian Democrat, Ralston has beaten Albert J. Beveridge for Governor, 1914, for Senator and is a reluctant dark horse for Presidential nominee. He has a farm home at Indianapolis, and is content to go back to it and to his law practice and study life.

Early Life

He was born on a farm near New Cumberland, Tuscarawas County, Ohio, on December 1, 1847. His parents were John and Sara (Scott) Ralston. When he was eight years old, the family moved to Owen County, Indiana, where his father bought a large sheep farm.

The Ralstons had three brothers and four sisters. They were brought up in strict religious severity, for his father for forty years was a Presbyterian elder. The father butchered meat and sold to the nearby people.

Samuel and his brothers had to get up at 3 o'clock in the morning to help. Then came the famous panic of 1873, and the family was reduced almost to want.

The father leased a 100 acre place, with a team of red and white horses, to the horses, the horses, the horses.

SAMUEL RALSTON,
SENATOR AND FORMER GOVERNOR OF INDIANA

strike at Indianapolis. Violence and property destruction were threatened. It was in the middle of a local political campaign. Neither the Mayor nor the police executives took effective action. Ralston obstructed traffic and mobbed the traction superintendent who tried to mollify them.

Ralston, as Governor, called out the state militia. The next day the state house yard was full of strikers demanding that the militia be withdrawn. The citizens demanded that the militia clear out the strikers. Ralston proposed arbitration. Neither side was at first willing. He tactfully asked each side what they would do in his place. Each side had to say the answer was enforcement of the law. Finally the Governor went out on the state house steps, addressed the strikers, presented the situation from both angles and brought about successful arbitration.

For eighty years the state had not been out of debt. Under him, the debt was reduced at lower interest, a sinking fund created, taxes were reduced, and according to his supporters, the state had $4,000,000 surplus when he quit office. His slogan was "openness."

His Administrative Ability

His successful administration, as Governor, was the over-riding argument for him as a potential candidate. While he was governor, besides the splendid financial showing, the legislature adopted a public utility law, a law to protect small borrowers from loan sharks, a "blue sky" law, an anti-sodomy law, laws against lobbying and special evils, established a dental farm and a state tuberculosis hospital and a state system of vocational education.

Tribute To Whitcomb Riley

Under him a state park system was inaugurated with the saving of picturesque "Turkey Run" to the nature lovers of the state. A James Whitcomb Riley day is regularly observed in the state on his birthday. His proclamation, issued in 1916, designating October 7, and urging schools and churches to properly recognize the day, pictured the great Hoosier poet as "Nature's interpreter." The originality of proclaiming a holiday for a writer attracted wide interest and his language in the proclamation gives an insight into his personality. He referred to Riley in this way:

"Indiana's moral star, shedding her rays on the hundred nations right and clear," who "recreated a world of love and hope and innocence," who caught "the music of the murmuring brook," "through whom more than any other writer will future generations be made familiar with Hoosier customs and the manners prevalent in our earlier Indiana life."

His Personality

Ralston's rugged personality and his reputation for inexhaustible energy in public and private life have won him the admiration not only of his party associates but his political op-

Politics.

It is said of him that no other governor of his state, except War Governor Morton, was so continuously confronted with situations requiring courage and determination. Neither labor nor capital could stampede him. In his inaugural address, he said:

"I shall have no favors in the execution of the law. Let it now be understood that I shall hold that the mind which devises a scheme that is in violation of the law is guilty than the dependent bands that execute the offense in obedience to orders."

Thomas Jefferson is Ralston's ideal. And in his office at Washington hangs a picture of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Benjamin Harrison, who was a fellow lawyer in Indiana, and Woodrow Wilson.

Judge B. R. Higgins, before whom he practiced many years, once said of him:

"Mr. Ralston is the most courageous man I ever knew. He is the fairest man in debate I ever saw in court. His magnanimity is as large as humanity."

Political Issues

Senator Ralston is an effective speaker in political campaigns, with a courage and self-reliance born of his early frontier training. On the wet and dry issue, he stands squarely on the Federal Constitution—that the Constitution prohibits the labor strike and that he is under oath at all times to support the Constitution. He is struggles for conservation of water power against private appropriation. He is against the Mellon plan for tax reduction and has an independent plan for meeting the tax burden. Opposed to war on principle, opposed to allowing wealth a greater percentage of tax reduction, Senator Ralston says he is not an enemy of property rights but an advocate of "just taxation of the profits of accumulated wealth to pay the cost of war."

"Strike from the income tax law," he says, "all provisions for taxing incomes of less than $2,000. That would make a total reduction of income taxes of $32,749,999. It would leave over $29,000,000 of Secretary Mellon's $299,000,000 possible reduction for reduction of other taxes, the payment of adjusted compensation to the ex-service men or for any other purpose Congress may see fit to devote it. Build all the warships and train all the soldiers you wish, but let the wealth of the country pay the bill. Even in a defensive war it is clearly property that is defended. I believe the truest friend of property rights today is he who tries to curb the growth of anarchistic and communistic sentiment by recognizing that both blood and that human life and human rights are as much entitled to protection as property and property rights."

"I have enough for Mrs. Ralston and myself. I have built up a big practice that I think ranks well with the profession. I have a farm of which I live and which I love more than the highest office in the gift of the American people. I did not want to be a candidate for the Senate but in the party desiring to favor me the nomination. While I am far from the poacher, I could not share a nominating campaign in Indiana alone."
